"If you read the first letters of a group of islands starting with "Circle Island" just west of "Shell Beach" on the south bank and south west across the lake from BLYC, and if you change the name of "Journal Island" to "Wolfe's Island" they (the first letters) spell CROW. The group includes "Circle," "Round," "Orchard," and "Wolfe's" or "Journal" islands."

"In the summer, especially during the hot months such as July, August, and early September, floating "Islands" appear in what is known as "Middle Passage" and "Cranberry Basin." These "islands" are caused by gas from the rotting vegetation which makes up most of the bottom, gathering under clumps of the vegetation and debris and causing it to come to the surface. They can be large or small, but to say the least they are a menace to boat operation since they do not rise very far above the surface."
